Matt Iwaniec, Adelphoi Village Foster/Adoptive Caseworker, will receive the Caseworker of the Year award at The 34th Annual Pennsylvania State Resource Family Association Conference, held in Harrisburg, PA from October 28-30, 2010.

Matt has worked with Adelphoi Village for over five years and has been a member of the Foster/Adoptive team since May 2008.

“Matt truly has a gift of engaging families and connecting with youth. He is committed to setting each child up for success and helping the families understand that their role is important. It is clear that Matt has the best interest of youth and families in mind with the work that he does,” noted Christa J. Bush, M.Ed, Program Director.

Adelphoi Village, a service of Adelphoi USA, provides care and treatment to over 800 youth and their families on a daily basis. Headquartered in Latrobe, Pennsylvania, the program provides a continuum of services that also includes group homes, a charter school, multisystemic therapy, education services, supervised independent living, adoption services, in home services; including High Fidelity Wraparound, secure care, and mental health programs.
